Sri Siddheshwar Brahmrishi Gurudev (also known as Siddhguru or Sidhguruvar Sri Sidheshwar Brahmrishi Gurudev / Guruvanand Ji) is a contemporary spiritual master based in Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh, India. He is revered by devotees as a living embodiment of Vedic wisdom, a Brahmarishi with mastery over siddhis (spiritual powers), and a guide emphasizing inner awakening, compassion, and practical spirituality.

Information is drawn primarily from official ashram sources and devotee accounts. Details on early life can be hagiographic or limited in public records.

Greatness of the Gurudev

Gurudev is described as a divine master who transforms lives through love, wisdom, and spiritual energy. Devotees highlight his innocence, joy, thunderous orations on love and simple living, and ability to meet people at their level — from basic homilies to advanced yogic practices. He is seen as an ambassador of peace, unity, and Sanatan Dharma, bridging religions without promoting cults or personality worship. His mission focuses on awakening "masters" rather than creating followers, reviving Vedic knowledge, and fostering self-realization, compassion, and seva (selfless service). He is credited with Ashta Siddhis (eight supernatural powers) and Nav Nidhis (nine divine treasures), Kundalini awakening, and guiding millions toward "Sidheshwar Consciousness."

Location

Sri Brahmrishi Ashram (Sri Sidheshwar Tirth / Brahmarishi Ashram) is located near Tirupati in Chittoor district, Andhra Pradesh, surrounded by hills in a natural setting. It serves as the spiritual headquarters.

His Parents

Public information on biological parents is limited or not emphasized. Official biographies describe him as found abandoned as a child near Kailasagiri Temple in Andhra Pradesh.

His Birth

Accounts vary slightly in emphasis. He was found as a silent, radiant child near Kailasagiri Temple. Some narratives mention divine qualities from birth, including activated Kundalini and chakras. One video reference suggests association with Deoraha Baba naming or blessing a child as Guru Anand.

Childhood

He was largely silent and could not speak until around age 11–12. He lived in or around ashrams, showing divine radiance and later regaining speech and "divine memory" under Deoraha Baba's grace.

Young Age

He excelled academically, including in engineering, while pursuing spiritual calling from an early age. He studied under realized masters alongside worldly education.

Spiritual Inclinations

Strong innate inclinations from childhood, leading to mastery of scriptures (Vedas, Puranas, Upanishads, Bhagavad Gita, etc.), Sanskrit, astrology, and Vedic sciences. He earned a PhD in these areas and was honored at global conferences.

His Guru

Primarily Sri Deoraha Baba (Devraha Baba), a revered mystic saint believed to have lived to about 190 years (passed in 1990), known for living on a thatched platform in Vrindavan. Gurudev was initiated/"touched" by him, regained his voice/memory, and received blessings and guidance.

Sadhana

Decades of intense penance and meditation, including long periods in the Himalayas and samadhi. He reattained lost knowledge of Ashta Siddhis and Nav Nidhis. Practices include Siddhasana (a comprehensive inner technology for energy alignment, Kundalini awakening, etc.), mantra shakti, and tantra siddhis.

Travels

He travels extensively across India and internationally (e.g., Europe, North America) under Vishwa Dharma Chetana Manch (World Spiritual Awareness Forum) to spread teachings, conduct programs, and touch lives globally.

Teachings

Core emphasis on:

- Inner awakening and self-realization through discipline, devotion, and seva.

- Practical spirituality rooted in Vedic wisdom, love, humility, simplicity, and compassion.

- "The time to be happy is now... make someone happy and make a little heaven right here" (quoting a nursery rhyme).

- Non-binding religion that frees from karma; unity across traditions.

- Siddhasana, sadhana, Kundalini, and manifesting divine consciousness in daily life.

- Avoiding ego, anger, and materialism while serving humanity.

Teachings blend advanced yogic/esoteric knowledge with accessible wisdom.

His Temple or Ashram

Sri Brahmrishi Ashram in Tirupati features temples, meditation & yagya halls, Energy Enhancement System (EES) for vibrational healing, rooms for sadhaks, sattvic bhojanshala (kitchen/dining), and gaushala (cow shelter). It is a center for retreats, silence, and transformation.

His Main Disciples

Information on specific named main disciples is not prominently detailed in sources; there are many global devotees, organizers (e.g., Ravinder Raj in Sweden), and followers who report life transformations. The ashram supports a community of sadhaks.

Miracles Performed (If Any)

Devotees report manifestations (e.g., Shiva symbols, Rudraksha beads, yantras, trishul), healings, protection, abundance, and resolving issues. Examples include heart health blessings and precise intuitive guidance. These are presented as demonstrations for faith rather than the core focus.

His Written Works, Discourses, or Teachings

Primarily oral discourses, videos, mantras (including Siddheshwar Maha Mantra), and wisdom shared via social media, YouTube, Spotify ("Life Teachings by Siddhguru"), and ashram events. No major published books are prominently listed; focus is on direct transmission and experiential wisdom ("True wisdom is not learned—it is remembered from within").

Present State of Ashram and Daily Routines

The ashram remains active as a pilgrimage and retreat center with facilities for meditation, yagya, healing, and seva. Daily routines likely center on sadhana, Siddhasana, chanting, and community service. Gurudev guides seekers, with programs, retreats, and global outreach continuing. Contact: +91 9676516006 (via ashram site).

Donation Info

The ashram encourages seva (selfless service) and contributions toward its mission (education, healing, cow care, etc.). Specific donation details are best obtained directly via the official website (sribrahmrishiashram.org) or contact number, as public pages emphasize voluntary participation and blessings over transactional info. Photo frames of Gurudev are sometimes offered as tokens.

Any Other Relevant Info

- Gurudev is active on Instagram and YouTube channels sharing wisdom (often with English subtitles).

- The ashram has faced some past controversies (e.g., raids mentioned in older news), but continues operations with devotee support.

- Emphasis on technology integration (e.g., EES) alongside traditional practices.

- Strong focus on the global community and uplifting souls regardless of background.

For the most accurate and updated details, visit the official ashram website, contact them directly, or engage with verified devotee resources, as spiritual biographies often evolve through oral tradition.

Here's an organized overview based on what's publicly available (mostly from the ashram's own website and devotee/media accounts — I'll flag where sources differ, since this isn't a figure with independent, verified biography):

Location

Sri Sidheshwar Tirth – Sri Brahmrishi Ashram is a spiritual pilgrimage site near Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh, that draws thousands of devotees and pilgrims from around the world each year. (Siddhguru)

Origins / Childhood

Accounts here differ across the guru's own sources. One version on the ashram's site describes him as found abandoned near Kailasagiri Temple in Andhra Pradesh — silent, still, and radiant with divine energy — before regaining his voice and "divine memory" at age 11 under the grace of Devraha Baba. (Sribrahmrishiashram) Another devotee account instead says his spiritual journey began at nine months old, when Yogiraj Devaraha Baba saved him from a terminal illness and raised him thereafter. (Indian Weekender) A separate biography states he excelled academically in engineering before studying under highly realized masters. (A Lotus in the Mud) These aren't easily reconcilable — worth keeping in mind that this is devotional literature, not independently documented biography.

Guru & Sadhana

His guru is consistently named as Devraha Baba, a mystic saint believed to have lived to age 190 before leaving his body in 1990, seen for generations sitting on a thatched platform in Vrindavan by the Yamuna. (A Lotus in the Mud) Per the ashram's own claims, he was born with three Siddhis and cultivated the rest through practice, completing this in under twelve years under Baba's guidance, later also acquiring nine Nidhis. (Siddheshwar) He's also said to have mastered 17,868 Vidhis and holds a Doctorate in Astrology, (Siddheshwar) plus, per another bio, was Honorary Principal and Professor at institutions including Banaras Hindu University, being a "scientist turned Saintist". (Indian Weekender)

Teachings & Public Role

Central themes are non-violence, peace, and women's empowerment. He has met with dignitaries — he met President Droupadi Murmu to discuss these themes, and it's noted that Sri Brahmrishi Ashram educates over 1 lakh girl children. (Odisha Diary) He also tours internationally; one account describes a devotee's impression of him as full of love and innocence, moving between childlike simplicity and technological fluency, weaving relevant stories into his talks. (A Lotus in the Mud)

Ashram Facilities & Daily Life

Hosts free 3-day and 7-day Siddhasana retreats, and is especially active during Navaratri, Diwali, and Mahashivaratri (Siddhguru)

Includes an Energy Enhancement System chamber, meditation/yagya halls, deity temples, guest rooms, a sattvic-food Bhojanshala, and a Gaushala (cow shelter) (Sribrahmrishiashram)

The EES uses color, light, and electromagnetic fields, donated by Jason Shurka of Unifyd Healing, and is offered free to all visitors

Per a general timings guide (not the ashram's own site, so treat as approximate): the ashram runs 24 hours with flexible check-in, morning pooja around 5 AM, mid-morning archana, and evening aarti; daily pooja participation is free but donations are welcomed, and vegetarian meals are served in the Bhojanalaya (Tirupati Tirumala)

Donations

I couldn't find a detailed, official donation/trust page on the ashram's site in this search — for accurate current bank/UPI details I'd recommend checking sribrahmrishiashram.org directly or contacting the ashram office rather than relying on third-party listings.

A note of caution: Much of this content — miracles, Siddhis, exact birth story — comes from the guru's own devotee network rather than independent journalism, and different official sources contradict each other on basic facts (his origin story especially). If you want, I can dig further into a specific thread (e.g., his written works, named disciples, or verified news coverage only).

About Sri Siddheshwar Brahmarishi Gurudev...Tirupati.. and His Teachings

Sri Siddheshwar Brahmarishi Gurudev of Tirupati is presented by his own ashram and public channels as a highly revered spiritual master, teacher of Vedic and yogic disciplines, and founder of Brahmarishi Ashram at C. Ramapuram, Tirupati. Public sources also describe his outreach as centered on spiritual transformation, healing, and service to humanity. [3][4][7][9]

Greatness of the Gurudev

He is portrayed as a “Siddhguru” or spiritually accomplished guide whose influence extends through discourses, social outreach, and large devotional followings online and offline. The ashram and related media describe his mission as uplifting people, relieving suffering, and spreading spiritual awareness. [4][7][9]

Location and Ashram

His ashram is identified as Sri Brahmrishi Ashram / Sri Sidheshwar Tirth at C. Ramapuram, RC Puram Mandal, Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh. Event listings connected to the ashram also show a contact number and that public programs are held there and in other locations. [3][9]

Early life and background

The public results I found did not clearly give verified details about his parents, exact birth date, childhood, or early education from a reliable biographical source. What is available online is mostly devotional and promotional material rather than a documented life history. [4][6][7]

Spiritual path

Available material describes him as deeply engaged in ancient Indian spiritual practices, Kundalini, chakras, and attainment of siddhis, but these are claims made by the affiliated channels themselves. A podcast and promotional posts present him as someone who has mastered spiritual disciplines and transmits teachings through direct guidance and discourse. [6][7]

Teachings

The main themes repeatedly mentioned are devotion to the Guru, inner transformation, peace, healing, service, and faith in divine grace. One ashram page specifically emphasizes unwavering faith in the Guru, while social posts describe a vision to uplift lives and heal suffering. [3][7]

Travels and outreach

Publicly visible content shows his teachings being shared through online programs, social media, podcasts, and event tours, including events in the United States. The ashram's event pages show organized global programs under a nonprofit spiritual forum. [6][9]

Disciples and followers

I could verify a large public following on Instagram, but I did not find a reliable source listing his main disciples by name. The available sources instead emphasize a broad community of followers, seekers, and volunteers connected to the ashram. [7][9]

Miracles and divine experiences

Some promotional material refers to miracles or divine experiences, including references to Lord Shiva visions and "miracles" in devotional language. These are faith-based claims from affiliated sources and not independently verified historical records. [4][5]

Works and discourses

A podcast series titled “Life Teachings by Siddhguru” suggests that his teachings are being archived and circulated in audio form. I did not find a clearly documented list of authored books or formal published works in the sources reviewed. [6]

Present ashram activity

The ashram appears active, with live-streamed events, social media outreach, and public gatherings. One event page says programs are open to all at no cost, with dinner or maha prasad served, and lists a volunteer contact line and email address. [1][9]T

Donation and contact

The event page and ashram listings show an official contact email, a volunteer phone line, and a nonprofit organizing structure, but I did not find a clearly stated donation page in the sources reviewed. For any formal compilation, it would be better to treat donation details as “contact the ashram directly” unless you can verify an official donation notice. [9]
